DEATH OF THE FAMOUS GEN. ASHBY.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF GEN. FREMONT.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY IN THE FIELD, Camp near Port Republic, June 9—9 A. M.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary War:

(No. 48.)—The army left Harrisonburgh at 9 this morning, and at 6½ my advance engaged the rebels about seven miles from that place, near Union Church. The enemy was very advantageously posted on the Heights, having chosen his own position, having a smaller circle than our own, and with his guns formed as usual. It contained undoubtedly of Jackson's entire force.

The battle began with heavy firing at 11 o'clock, and lasted with great obstinacy and violence until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Some skirmishing and artillery firing continuing from that time until dark.

Our troops fought constantly under the murderous fire of greatly superior numbers; the bravest of the small—even the being on the left wing, which was held by Sullen's Brigade, consisting of five regiments.

The fighting was continuous and freely and with great effect by our men.

The loss on both sides is very great; ours is very heavy among the officers.

A full report of those who distinguished themselves will be made without partiality.

I desire to say that both officers and men behaved with splendid gallantry, and that the service of the artillery was especially admirable.

We are encamped on the field of battle, which may be named at any moment.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE TIMES.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD BRIGADE, SHIELDS'S DIVISION, Near Harrisonburgh, June 10.

Jackson made a stand at this point and we attacked him this morning. The enemy is not favorably for this fighting, being hilly and woody. Our guns were driven up in battle line—Gen. STARR on the left supported by Gen. BOURN; Gen. MILROY in the center, supported on the right by Gen. SCHENCK, Gen. BOURNE being in reserve.

Skirmishing commenced between 10 and 11 o'clock, and continued on about 12. The enemy had an excellent position, and directed their fire well, but as few more were killed on our side as generally fall by attack.

Gen. STARR made an advance nearly to the river, driving the enemy back, but they precipitated their main column on him, and he was compelled to retire to avoid being flanked. His forces came out in good order, and our line was returned to better position.

Up to 3 o'clock the contending was brisk, but after that time it slackened, and now, at 5 o'clock, everything is quiet, as it should be on a Sunday evening.

Our main origin was, The Garibaldi, De Kalb, and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Regiments, suffered most severely.

So thick are the woods that it is impossible for one to see the movements even by mingling in them, nor can any estimate be formed of the force opposed to us. A prisoner says Gen. EWELL has between our right wing and the river with six thousand men.

When our advance fell back the enemy did not pursue, preferring to maintain his position, and throw us on the border of attack.

It is thought that JACKSON, finding no bridge here, will attempt to cross at Mt. Crawford, where he will find no bridge either.

It is as yet too early to give you a list of killed or wounded, as but few of them are yet brought in.

FROM THE PRESS CORRESPONDENT.

FREMONT'S HEADQUARTERS, BRIDGEWATER BRIDGE BEYOND HARRISONBURGH, VA., Sunday, June 8.

Gen. Fremont has overtaken the enemy, of whom he has been in pursuit four days, forced him to fight, and has driven him from his chosen position with heavy loss.

We left Harrisonburgh this morning at 4 o'clock, and advanced in pursuit of JACKSON by the road leading to Port Republic. On the left of the turnpike to Staunton, about miles beyond Harrisonburgh, the advanced guard discovered the enemy posted in the woods to the left and front, apparently in force.

Artillery was sent to the front and commenced shelling without receiving any reply. JACKSON at last having been forced to make a stand with his whole army, had completely masked his position in wood and ambush.

Skirmishers and cavalry were sent forward. The enemy's pickets readily came up, and the line of battle, two miles and nearly two miles, was promptly formed under direction of Col. AMES, Chief of the Staff. Before it was completed, Gen. STARR, with the Garibaldi Guards, became engaged with the enemy on the extreme right, and forced him to fall back.

At this a general advance was ordered, and the whole line moved forward. Gen. MILROY had the center, Gen. BOURNE the right, and Gen. STARR, with the Garibaldi Guards, the left. Gen. SCHENCK's and Col. SCHIRMER's regiments composed the reserve.

The engagement down the wooded slope lasted two hours, and was very severe. The enemy's right was turned by the Garibaldi Guards, and the line of battle was advanced to the edge of the woods, where the enemy had formed in force, on the other side of which the enemy's right wing was concealed in the woods. The Eighth advanced gallantly under a heavy fire, but being so long unsupported by the Forty-fifth, and largely outnumbered, were finally forced to retire. Col. MILROY, who was severely wounded, and the whole regiment badly cut up, lacking but one man, lost more than half its strength.

The enemy's pursuit was checked by artillery, and Gen. BOURNE finally withdrew his brigade to a stronger position, repulsing a flank movement, and holding his wing firmly.

Gen. MILROY advanced his center rapidly, the artillery fire compelling the enemy to give ground. Gen. SCHENCK, on the right, twice drove back the rebels who attempted to turn his position. Along our whole line our artillery, under Col. FRANCIS's direction, was served with great vigor and precision, and the final success was largely due to its effect.

The enemy suffered severely. One rebel regiment lost two-thirds of its members in attempting to capture WINSLOW's Battery, which cut them to pieces with canister at fifty paces. The rebel batteries were repeatedly silenced and forced to abandon their position.

Col. CLUSERET, with his weak brigade, took and held the centre of the enemy's position and his encampment is there by-night.

Our force was outnumbered at all points, but have occupied the rebel lines, and forced them to retreat.

The loss is heavy on both sides, the enemy suffering especially from our artillery.

The Garibaldi Guards lost nearly 200; the Twenty-fifth Ohio 60. The total loss is estimated at from six to eight hundred in killed, wounded and missing.

Col. VAN GILSA (De Kalb Regiment); Capt. PAUL, Eighth New-York; Capt. BURNES, Twenty-sixth New-York; Capt. BIRNEY, Thirty-sixth New-York; Capt. CRAB NORRIS, Twenty-fifth Ohio; Surgeon CARTWELL, Eighty-second Ohio, are all wounded. Many other officers are wounded and killed.

The rebels fought wholly under cover, while our troops were forced to advance through open fields. The enemy's advantages of position and the numbers were counterbalanced and defeated by Gen. FREMONT's skillful handling of his troops, and the coolness and determination with which he pressed his success.

The fight was furious for three hours, and continued till nearly dark.

Our army sleeps on the field of battle.

DISPATCH FROM GEN. FREMONT.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 10.

The following was received at the War Department this A. M.:

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY IN THE FIELD, HARRISONBURGH, Saturday, June 7, 1862. 9 o'clock P. M.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

The attack upon the enemy's rear of yesterday, precipitated his retreat. Their loss in killed and wounded was very severe.

Their retreat is almost by an impassable road, along which many wagons were left in the woods, and wagon-loads of blankets, clothing, and other equipments are piled up in all directions.

During the evening many of the rebels were killed by shells from a battery of Gen. STEAR'S Brigade.

Gen. AMES, who covered the retreat with his whole cavalry force and three regiments of infantry, and who exhibited admirable skill and audacity, was among the killed.

Gen. MILROY made a reconnoissance, to-day, about seven miles on the Port Republic road, and discovered a portion of the enemy's forces encamped in the timber.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE TIMES.

HARRISONBURGH, Sunday, June 8, and WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 10.

General, formerly Colonel, ASHBY is dead. This is established beyond a doubt. The citizens along the line of road over which his cavalry passed this morning, were told so by his men, and a negro with whom I this afternoon conversed, a servant of one of the cavalry officers, left behind in the rapid march, saw him fall from his horse. He was shot in the breast, and died in a few hours. You will remember that I wrote you of the bold charge he made up to our lines, and his repulse by the fire of the Sixtieth Ohio. It was probably one of their shots that killed him.

It is thought that, besides Col. AMES, the rebels lost nearly thirty men by the fire of the Bucktails. We brought six bodies of the latter from the field and woods where they fell to-day. The trees in the vicinity were fairly splintered with balls.

Lieut.-Col. KANE is not on the field, and, despite the report of last night, it is quite certain now that he was only wounded, and is now alive, though a prisoner.

We found the body of Capt. THOS. B. HAUSE, of the First New-Jersey Cavalry, on the field where he fell. He was killed by a sabre stroke on the head.

JOHN JONES, of the same regiment, was wounded in the groin in the skirmish, and died last night at the house of a farmer where he was taken.

Capt. SZEKELYA, before reported killed, is probably only wounded and a prisoner, and Maj. PADDOCK, of the Fourth New-York Mounted Rifles, reported dead, is said to have been only wounded in the hand and captured.

A reconnoissance this afternoon shows that the rebel pickets are six miles from this place.

FREMONT'S HEADQUARTERS, HARRISONBURGH, Saturday, June 7.

In the skirmish yesterday beyond the town, the rebel loss is ascertained to have been very heavy. Most of our wounded have been brought in. Col. KANE, of the "Bucktails," is in the enemy's hands. The body of Capt. HAUSE, of the First New-Jersey Cavalry, has been found. Captains STEARNS and CLARK, of the same regiment, are prisoners, and not wounded.

Col. ASHBY, the famous rebel cavalry leader, is undoubtedly killed. This is ascertained from people living near the battle-field, and from prisoners taken this valley and on the opposite mountain, which, in the evening, were covered with troops. In these woods and to drive out in the heavy timber beyond, the enemy were posted.

Gen. STARR, on the left, was first engaged. Gen. MILROY and BOURNE found the enemy soon after, and the battle almost immediately became general.

Gen. MILROY, after BOURNE's Battery had shelled the woods for some time, advanced the Eighth New-York and Forty-fifth New-York through the woods into the open field, on the other side of which the enemy's right wing was concealed in the woods. The Eighth advanced gallantly under a heavy fire, but being so long unsupported by the Forty-fifth, and largely outnumbered, were finally forced to retire. Col. THE MOUNTAIN DEPARTMENT.

The Movement to Meet Jackson—Over the Mountains—Skirmishing with Jackson's Rear Guard.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE MARCH, MOUNT JACKSON, VA., Tuesday, June 3, 1862.

In my last, from near Strasburgh, I gave you a hasty notice of the movement and progress of the troops belonging to this Department from the last encampment at Franklin up to that point. I indicated that we should meet near Strasburgh on Saturday night, Sunday. Soon after that note was mailed a dense fog and mist arose to be our company over the mountain. Our starting was later than usual; the mist increased to rain as we turned to descend the mountain, and night overtook us before we reached the bottom. The perilous experiences of that fearful night I am sure will never be written, but in any other than war times might afford material for a very interesting record.

Suffice it to say we did not reach Strasburgh at all; but on nearing the place on Sunday morning, lat last., a brisk cannonading in the distance informed us that our advance guard had encountered the rebel JACKSON, who had reached there before us, thus thwarting for the time being our fond hopes and expectations.

This leads me reluctantly to recur to the complaints heretofore urged, of want of attention to this Department on the part of the Government, or its agents, on whose prompt and efficient action its usefulness so much depended. Is it the old story over again, "for want of a nail the shoe was lost," &c. It has been derisively said by one whose authority will not be questioned, that Gen. FREMONT had been sent off to a mountainous region, where he could do no good and very little hurt; and this seems to have been accepted as the text for the treatment he has received. Had he been supplied with the means asked for, immediately on receiving his appointment, he would have had full possession of the great spinal cord line, the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, early in April, and thus have effectually broken the back of the rebellion. He came very near doing it, as it was, with a totally inadequate force under COX, who reached within one day's march of it at the Narrows of New River, in May, when he was repulsed by largely superior numbers under HUMPHREY MARSHALL, and turned back. So, also, is our march hither from Franklin, an entire day was lost on the top of the Shenandoah Mountain, waiting for a supply train to come up from New Creek, without which it were fatal to attempt to descend into this valley with a large army, when armies had been busy exhausting supplies for the last three or four months.

One lost day was just enough, and only enough, to put JACKSON in Strasburgh ahead of us, on his retreat up the valley from Martinsburgh, and has thus lost to the country ten times the value of all the transportation so long and so urgently asked for this Department.

We find here, then, a full justification for all the animadversions against somebody, for the cruel delay is filling out this out-o'-the-way department, which could do neither hurt nor good.

About 9 o'clock on Sunday morning, the advance of Gen. FREMONT's command, consisting of the Sixtieth Ohio Infantry, Col. TAUSSER; the Eighth Virginia Infantry, Col. LOESCHER, with a battery of artillery, encountered the enemy, thrown out about four miles beyond Strasburgh, to meet us. A lively skirmishing was kept up for about three hours, in which our advance guard all participated, commanded by Col. CLUSERAT, a French officer of military experience and skill, who has won distinction under GARIBALDI and other leaders in foreign lands; and who says, in his imperfect English, that "fighting is necessary for his health."

Gen. FREMONT, at the head of his main column, arrived soon after the firing commenced—the troops rapidly filing into line of battle as they came up, on an open ground admirably adapted for an extensive battle-field.

It turns out that this skirmishing was indulged in by JACKSON only to cover the retreat of his main column up the Valley toward Staunton. Whether or not he ever reaches there remains to be seen. His men have been severely marched for the last three weeks. He has been hotly pursued for two days, with occasional skirmishing on the road by his rear guard, from which we have taken some 400 to 500 prisoners, (reports vary,) of whom it is said the General took two himself at one time.

The enemy is now believed to be not far from New-Market, seven miles from this place, but has burned an important bridge behind him, across the Shenandoah River. We expect to cross in the morning, on a pontoon bridge, and perhaps surprise him before night in a way he is not quite prepared for.

On examining Sunday's work we found six slightly wounded—all but one belonging to the Eighth Virginia Infantry.

In the evening, a detachment was sent out beyond Strasburgh to interrupt the enemy's retreat. It was very dark, and little was accomplished. Col. FRIZELLIER, in a sabre encounter with ASHBY's Cavalry, was slightly wounded in the face and in the groin; Lieut. C. H. HAWKINS, of New-York, wounded in the thigh; also, a private, JOHN WILSON, in the arm. A rope stretched across the road threw our cavalry horses in confusion, and the expedition was fruitless of any important result.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SHENANDOAH.

The Rebel Plan of Operations—What they Tried to Do and What they Failed to Do—Jackson's Retreat Successful.

MARTINSBURGH, VA., Thursday, June 5, 1862.

The most intelligible account of the enemy's designs, movements and force in the late advance from the South was brought here last night by a gentleman from Winchester, a close observer of passing events, and heretofore strictly reliable. His statement in substance is as follows:

When JACKSON left our front, near Harrisonburgh, to join JOHNSTON and drive back Gens. MILROY and SCHENCK, EWELL, with the advance guard of a larger force, came over into the Luray Valley to watch the movements of Gen. BANKS, and hold him in check from crossing the Blue Ridge, which was supposed, at that time, by the Secessionists, to be the designed plan of the War Department. The rebel forces under Gens. LOSCHERZER and SHIELS formed a portion of the new corps of the valley. They remained about one day's march in rear of EWELL, while the latter was at Elk Run, east of Harrisonburgh.

After driving MILROY and SCHENCK back to Franklin, JACKSON returned to the valley, leaving EWELL to guard the roads in and around Staunton. Joining forces with EWELL, who, meantime, had been strongly reinforced, JACKSON cautiously and quietly advanced down the Luray Valley; while SHIELS, with about ten thousand men, crossed the Massanutten Mountain, and pursued a parallel route toward Strasburgh. Their object, as stated by JACKSON in Winchester, was to capture the whole of our little army and stores, and then retreat back to his starting point; but, he added, he had failed in an important particular.

Finding our front at Harper's Ferry too strong to attempt a capture, and fearing of advances upon the flanks by strong Union forces, JACKSON, after securing all the plunder he could convey, ordered a retrograde movement. SHIELS had previously retraced his route from Strasburgh up the valley, to prevent FREMONT from crossing over to Harrisonburgh or Newmarket. Leaving camp between Hallstown and Charlestown early Friday morning, JACKSON, with his advance, reached the Ashby Gap, and that night, at or near Millwood, and the next day entered Strasburgh; his train, with advance, having been sent forward on Thursday, had already passed through Strasburgh. On Saturday morning, Ewell, with the rear guard, followed JACKSON, and encamped Saturday night at Middletown, performing a march of thirty-four miles in one day.

FREMONT's advance guard under MILROY reached Strasburgh, six miles northeast of Strasburgh, on Friday night. On Saturday it moved two and a half miles nearer Strasburgh, halting near a hamlet called Cottontown.

Arriving at Strasburgh, JACKSON, on Sunday morning, found MILROY having been reinforced by BANKS's Division, passed on to Strasburgh, only to find that JACKSON had already passed through Strasburgh. On Sunday morning, EWELL

There was less business done on the Stock Exchange to-day than on Monday, and prices were not so buoyant by ¼@¾ ₩ cent. on the Share list, although the bidding for the Government Securities and sales of Tennessee and Missouri State ₩ cents. were quite as firm. The demand for the Railway Bonds also continues strong and generally at advancing prices. There is less excitement in Gold and Exchange than yesterday. The rate for Gold is 104¼@104¾ ₩ cent., with a fair business doing, and for Bills on London 115@115¼ ₩ cent., the principal sales at 115 ₩ cent. The rates for Money continue easy at 4@5¾ ₩ cent. on first class loans and discounts.

The deposits at the Sub-Treasury on 4 ₩ cent. interest have been resumed with some activity to-day, and also the conversion of United States Notes into five years 6 ₩ cent. United States Stock. The receipts on both amounts to-day at the New-York office amount to $470,000.

The rumors in reference to the further increase of United States Notes of Circulation here and from Washington seem to have no other foundation than the possible application of the Secretary of the Treasury to Congress for authority to employ $25,000,000 or $50,000,000 United States Notes of smaller denomination than $5, and also for authority to increase the limit of deposits at the Sub-Treasury to $100,500,000, with a proviso that should such deposits be suddenly called in, the Department may, in its discretion, exceed the present limit of United States Notes of Circulation, wherewith to pay them off, rather than subject the Government to forced sales of United States Stocks. We have no official evidence, however, that any such application is to be made to Congress.

The United States Notes of the Custom-House issue opened this forenoon at 101¼ and left off at 101¼ ₩ cent. The 7.30 ₩ cent. Treasury Bonds close 105¼, sales. The Treasury Certificates, 6 ₩ cents., of 1863, are scarce and in demand at 100¼@100½ ₩ cent. They are a favorite investment for the temporary employment of Money both here and at the West, and the first fifty millions issued by the Department in settlement with the public creditors, appear to have been quietly absorbed without being felt upon the Money market. The authority of the Secretary to employ this description of paper, not having over twelve months to run, is not limited by the Act of Congress; the theory of this policy being that at the end of twelve months, the funding of the certificates will be made on more favorable terms for the Government than at present, or if not funded, they will be paid off in United States Notes.

Mr. E. K. WILLARD, late of Chicago, has joined Mr. G. L. MAXWELL, of the Stock Exchange, in business, at No. 35 Wall-street.

THE BATTLE OF FAIR OAKS.

WE ANNOUNCE BY TELEGRAPH.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA, June 1, 1862.

To the Army of Richmond:

I rejoice to you. My grateful acknowledgments [illegible] and good conduct you displayed in the battles of the 31st of May and 1st inst., and with [illegible] pleasure recognize the promptness and [illegible] with which you disposed the enemy in [illegible] his entrenched intrenchments, several [illegible] of artillery, and many standards, and every [illegible] you have seen.

As a part of your operations it was my fortune to be present, the two other occasions have I witnessed more of enthusiasm and good order than you exhibited [illegible] the very jaws of death, and [illegible] the process with which you [illegible] the enemy when a panic of fire was [illegible].

[illegible] people in which you are on the [illegible] of victory, and your humanity to the wounded and the prisoners was the fit and crowning glory to your valor.

Remember of a just cause, may God have you in His holy keeping. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The General will cause the above to be read to the troops under his command.

NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCE.

From the Memphis Argus of the 2d.

RICHMOND, May 31.—A violent rain and thunder storm occurred here last evening, continuing several hours. At 9 o'clock the gas-works were flooded and the city was in total darkness.

A heavy skirmish occurred, yesterday, on the Williamsburg road. Capt. SCARBOROUGH, of North Carolina, was killed. The fight is still progressing near the Chickahominy. No reports have yet been received.

The Chickahominy is much swollen from the recent heavy rains.

RICHMOND, May 31.—The heavy rains last night came a flood in the Chickahominy. Bridges are reported to have been washed entirely away.

Every Division of the enemy was caught this side of the river.

Ambulances were sent down to-day about noon.

The firing of artillery and musketry are distinctly heard here.

No courier has yet arrived.

RICHMOND, May 31.—Gen. HILL's Division commenced the fight this morning. Rodes' and Garland's Brigades are bearing the brunt of the battle at this time. Rodes' and Anderson's Brigades also were engaged yesterday until our reinforcements arrived.

The enemy was reinforced, and the fight was continued with great desperation on both sides.

The enemy was finally driven from his redoubts, and his batteries turned upon his columns.

Prisoners taken say Gen. BURNS was in command.

President DAVIS and LEE were on the field, and their presence increased the enthusiasm of our troops.

All accounts agree that the Confederates displayed great bravery.

The Yankees stubbornly contested every inch, only giving away before the impetuous charges of our soldiers.

No reliable estimate of casualties has yet been made.

A large number of the Confederate soldiers are wounded in the arms and hands.

Gen. HILL is slightly wounded. No other general officer on our side hurt, so far as known.

The enemy tried to make a flank movement about 7, but were repulsed by Warren's Division.

RICHMOND, May 31.—The battle has been progressing all day near Chickahominy.

All reports from the field are favorable.

The engagement was severe and the loss on both sides heavy.

The Confederate wounded have been coming in for several hours.

It is believed the fight will be renewed to-morrow.

The commanders are in good spirits and confident of victory.

RICHMOND, June 1.—The battle took place in the vicinity of Bear Swamp, between the railroad and the Williamsburgh road, about seven miles from the city.

The accounts sent yesterday are correct in the main.

Heavy skirmishing was heard this morning.

RICHMOND, June 1.—The fight is progressing furiously, the roar of cannon and musketry is constantly heard, and clouds of smoke are visible.

The latest reports from the field. The battle is in the house of the plantation of the wounded millions. It is stated that the Confederates are following up the victories of yesterday. Prisoners are constantly coming in.

Gen. WISE was not present, McCLELLAN commanding in person.

It is now believed that a large portion of the Federal army was in the rear of the attack.

RICHMOND, June 1.—No definite accounts have been received of the result of the battle to-day, but all reports concur that the enemy was badly whipped and driven into a swamp.

The losses were considerable on both sides. The Yankees have lost over a dozen guns.

Hundreds of wounded are leaving. About 800 prisoners in all, have been taken.

Prisoners and deserters present reliable report from the battle-field, reports that the enemy had been driven back a mile and a half from his position, and had entirely evacuated their camps.

We captured three batteries, after most desperate fighting, the enemy being protected by woods and thickets.

Several hundred prisoners are reported taken.

RICHMOND, May 31.—The Richmond Dispatch, of the 30th, says the Federal army is falling back, and that our forces are rapidly in pursuing them.

It is reported in Richmond that STONEWALL JACKSON crossed the Potomac River, and is now at Williamsport, Maryland, or Frederickstown Turnpike.

The movement, it is thought, caused the retrograde movement of the Federals from Richmond.

The same paper says that Gen. BANKS, in Tuesday's fight, at New-Market, succeeded in getting off his entire command.

GEN. JOHNSTON WOUNDED.

From the Richmond Examiner, June 3.

Troops and officers never behaved better than the Confederate army engaged on the Chickahominy. The only thing to be regretted is the unfortunate wound of Gen. JOHNSTON. That was indeed a disaster. Saturday and Sunday were both victories, but the great difference between the results of the first and the second days of the second. The whole affair strewed to have lost its purpose and plan when the contending forces were withdrawn, and that night that went up in the early hours of Saturday, came flying down into nearly the same place of Sunday evening. The enemy was completely routed and lost not less than 10,000 men, perhaps more, as their own lists will shortly show.

GEN. LEE IS COMMAND.

From the Petersburgh Express, June 3.

On Tuesday May-Gen. ROBERT W. LEE was assigned to the command of the army in front of Richmond, in consequence of a slight wound to Gen. JOHNSTON, and, upon assuming his important position, issued an address to the army, which was read at the head of the regiments. Its sentiments created the liveliest enthusiasm. The address informed them, in a few words, that the army had made its last retreat, and that henceforth every man's watchword should be "Victory or death!" The response was given from all the regiments.

NEW-ORLEANS.

GEN. BUTLER'S CAPERS.

From the Jackson (Mississippian.

From our telegraphic column it will be seen that Gen. BUTLER is suiting up sundry fantastic capers in the Crescent City. He is grinding the people of that devoted city to the lowermost depths of poverty and oppression. We are glad of it. It will hasten the day of their deliverance. It will rouse the people of the North what they have to expect when they come under the yoke of the Yankee despotism, disunion and infidelity to such heights. We are all for vigorously prosecuting the war against the Yankees, in the spirit of Toombs's Bombast. His attempts to enslave the people of New-Orleans, by the stern governings of bayonets, will arouse against their country, in truly a Yankee trick. He will protect property! Property rights are to be respected! Oh, Tom! [illegible] Yankees [illegible] the slaves liberated by their country and their brothers, of course, [illegible] their wealth turned over to the Government, [illegible] property as contraband, [illegible] the rich are to be despoiled of their property, and the poor are to be made rich by confiscation and oppression. We are glad of it. It will hasten the day of their deliverance. It will rouse the people of the North what they have to expect when they come under the yoke of the Yankee despotism, disunion and infidelity to such heights. [illegible] Tom, [illegible] the people, or [illegible] the people, [illegible] Tom, [illegible] the people, or [illegible] Tom, [illegible] the people, or [illegible] Tom, [illegible] the people, or SANITARY COMMISSION.—THE UNITED States Sanitary Commission will open an office for the transaction of its business at No. 244 Broadway, second floor, on MONDAY, the 20th instant.

It proposes to collect and publish all information that can be obtained from Governmental and other sources, concerning the departure and arrival of transports having sick and wounded troops aboard; to keep a record of sick and wounded soldiers arriving at this port, and of the disposition made of them; to act as a medium of communication among the local Associations for the relief of the sick in transit; and to confer with the United States military and medical authorities here, in the mean time, [illegible] distribution of patients from the army.

Medical students, desirous of acting as dressers on the transports in service of the Commission, will please report at this office, enter their names and address, references to medical professors, and the notice they require when called on.

Male nurses, relinquishing their services on the transport, will register their names at this office, with address and reference, and notice required by them.

Surgeons and physicians seeking information in regard to the difficulties attending to volunteer in emergencies, will apply at this office.

Persons having business with the Commission will apply in person to the Superintendent in charge, between 10 A. M. and 12 M. The Executive Committee of the Sanitary Commission, who usually meet at the office, between 3 and 4 P. M., daily.

The expenses of the Commission are very heavy. The present month has cost it not less than $20,000, mostly in the purchase of hospital supplies for the army in Virginia and the Southwest. It is believed that this expenditure has saved a thousand lives, at least, in Virginia alone.

The following articles of hospital clothing and supplies are urgently wanted by the Commission, and may be sent to the Women's Central Association of Relief, No. 14 Cooper Institute:

Sheets, greatly wanted.
Cotton drawers, greatly wanted.
Cotton socks, greatly wanted.
Cotton jean wamsets, greatly wanted.
Flannel bandages, wanted.

Jellies, teas, spirits, wines, farinaceous food, condensed milk, preserved meats and Assorted vegetables. Fruits, especially preserved, and ice by the cake.

The prodigious demand of the last month, during which more than a hundred thousand articles of clothing (besides other supplies) have been issued by the Commission to [illegible] wounded, in the army of the Potomac alone, and probably a much larger amount to the Western and other Departments, has reduced our stock, and although the good ladies have been resolved at the Washington depôts almost spirited, the demand is much greater than the supply.

A special report of the condition of the advertisement is brought at the part of those sending supplies.

To this is added a new and unexpected want—that of out-of-door clothing—coats, pantaloons, vests, to clothe soldiers who have been [illegible] their uniforms, and are unable to leave the hospitals on [illegible] of inclemency.

NEW-YORK, May 2, 1864.

OFFICE OF CLERK OF BOARD OF COUNCILMEN,
NEW-YORK, June 9, 1862.

AT A MEETING OF THE BOARD OF Councilmen, held this evening, the following message was received from His Honor the Mayor, which was received and directed to be published in the papers employed by the Corporation:

JAMES M. SWEENEY, Clerk.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, June 7, 1862.

To the Honorable the Board of Councilmen:

GENTLEMEN: I must return without my approval the resolution authorising the Comptroller "to purchase the lot of ground described in the Mortgage to the City of New-York, at the best price for the interests of the City."

This seems to me to be an unwise departure from the practice hitherto adopted, of advertising for proposals within prescribed limits of location, which gives the City the advantage of the competition that such advertisements elicit.

But if we are to depart from this practice in the present case, it is obviously inexpedient to restrict the Comptroller's discretion by designating the specific lot which he is to purchase. In doing this, we voluntarily deprive the City of the benefit to be derived from the competition of those desiring to sell, and, before ascertaining the price of this particular lot, give notice to the owner that we intend to purchase it. This is a novel method of negotiating for the purchase of property, and it seems to me as injudicious as it is novel. If it be deemed proper to authorise the Comptroller to purchase, I cannot doubt but it would be more conducive to the interests of the City to leave him free to exercise his discretion in the selection of the property.

If the lot designated is peculiarly desirable as to location and price, it would receive from him, no doubt, the full consideration to which it would thereby be entitled.

GEORGE OPDYKE, Mayor.

BEAUREGARD AT OKOLONA.

DISPATCH FROM GEN. HALLECK.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 10.

The following message was received at the War Department this morning:

CORINTH, Monday, June 9.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

The enemy has fallen back to Tupelo, fifty miles from here by railroad and nearly twenty miles by wagon road. Gen. Pope estimates the rebel loss from evacuation, prisoners and desertion, at over 20,000 men, and Gen. Scott, at between 20,000 and 30,000.

A prisoner, who was employed in the Confederate Commissary Department, says they had 120,000 men in Corinth, and that now they cannot muster much over 80,000.

Some of the fresh graves on the road have been opened, and found filled with arms.

Many of the prisoners of war beg not to be exchanged, saying they purposely allowed themselves to be taken.

BEAUREGARD himself retreated from Baldwin on Saturday afternoon, to Okolona.

AID FOR STARVING SOUTHERNERS.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, June 10.

JAMES S. YEATMANS, President of the Western Sanitary Commission, this morning received a dispatch from Gen. HALLECK, stating that hundreds of women and children in that vicinity are in a starving condition—their husbands and brothers have all been pressed into the rebel service, and robbed of everything—and appealing to the citizens of St. Louis for relief for the sufferers. Mr. YEATMANS laid Gen. HALLECK'S dispatch before the Union Chamber of Commerce, and $2,000 worth of provisions was immediately subscribed, and a Committee appointed to receive and collect food, or money to buy it with. Similar proceedings were had at the old Chamber of Commerce, and liberal subscriptions of provisions and money were made. The citizens generally are also furnishing large supplies of provisions, and, from present appearances, the hospital steamer Empress, which will leave for Pittsburgh Landing to-morrow, will be heavily laden with food for the suffering Southerners. Contributions from other points, addressed to Brig.-Gen. CULLUM, Chief of Staff, Corinth, Miss., will be properly distributed. Money is not required, as there are no provisions in the country to purchase.

THE CAPTURE OF MEMPHIS.

Additional Dispatches from Col. Ellet, Commanding the Ram Fleet.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 10.

The following dispatches from Col. ELLET were received this morning at the War Department:

U. S. RAM SWITZERLAND, OFFICER MEMPHIS, June 7—P. M.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

SIR: Yesterday, after the engagement with the rebel fleet had nearly terminated, and the gunboats and one of my rams had passed below, I was informed that a white flag had been raised in the city. I immediately sent my son, a medical cadet, CHARLES R. ELLET, ashore with a flag of truce, and the following note to the authorities:

OFFICER MEMPHIS, June 6, 1862.

I understand that the city of Memphis has surrendered. I therefore send my son, with two United States flags, with instructions to raise one upon the Court-house and the other upon the Court-house, as evidence of the return of your city to the care and protection of the Constitution.

(Signed) CHARLES ELLET, Jr.,
Colonel Commanding.

The bearer of the flag and the above note was accompanied by Lieut. CUSHING, of the Fifty-ninth Illinois Regiment, and two men of the boat guard.

The following is the reply of the Mayor of the city:

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 6, 1862.

Col. Charles Ellet, Jr., Commanding, &c.:

SIR: Your note of this date is received and the contents noted. The civil authorities of this city are not advised of the surrender to the forces of the United States Government, and our reply to you is simply to state, respectfully, that we have no forces to oppose the raising of the flags you have directed to be raised over the Custom-house and Post-office.

Respectfully,
(Signed) JOHN PARK, Mayor.

On receiving this reply, the small party proceeded to the post-office to raise the National flag, and were there joined by the Mayor. It is proper to state that the conduct of the Mayor and some of the citizens was unexceptionable, but the party was surrounded by an excited crowd, using angry and threatening language. They ascended to the top of the post-office, and planted the flag, though fired upon several times and cursed by the mob below. Still, I believe this conduct was reprobated by the people of standing in the place. Indeed, many evidences of an extensive Union sentiment in the place reach me.

Respectfully,
(Signed) CHARLES ELLET, Jr.,
Colonel Commanding Ram Fleet.

OFFICER MEMPHIS, June 10, 1862.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton:

SIR: There are several facts touching the naval engagement of the 6th inst., at this place, which I wish to place on record.

Approaching Memphis the gunboats were in the advance. I had received no notice that a fight was expected, but was informed on landing within sight of Memphis that the enemy's gunboats had retreated down the river. My first information of the presence of the enemy was a shot which passed over my boat. I had four of my most powerful rams in the advance and ready for any emergency; the others were towing the barges. On advancing to the attack, I expected, of course, to be followed by the Monarch, the Lancaster and the Switzerland. The Monarch came up gallantly. Some of the officers of the Lancaster, which now held the next place in the line, became excited and confused, but the engineers behaved well; the pilot erred in signals, and backed the boat ashore and disabled her rudder. The Captain of the Switzerland construed the general signal order "to keep half a mile in the rear of the Lancaster" to mean that he was "to keep half a mile behind her in the engagement," and therefore failed to participate; hence the whole brunt of the fight fell upon the Queen and Monarch. Had either the Lancaster or Switzerland followed me as the Monarch did, the rebel gunboat Van Dorn would not have escaped, and my flagship would not have been disabled. Three of the rebel rams and gunboats which were struck by my two rams sunk outright, and were lost; another, called the General Price, was but slightly injured, and I am now riding her, and purpose to send her to my fleet. Respectfully,

(Signed.) CHARLES ELLET, Jr.,
Colonel Commanding Ram Fleet.

CONTRABANDS FORBIDDEN TO COME INTO THE UNION LINES AT MEMPHIS.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, June 10.

A special dispatch from Memphis, dated the 8th, says:

It has been decided by the Federal authorities not to allow runaway negroes to come into our lines using the navy shamefully, and that they have no claim over them outside the lines.

FROM GEN. McCLELLAN'S ARMY.

OUR CORRESPONDENCE FROM THE ADVANCE.

Quiet Along the Lines—Advance of the Left Wing—Our Troops Crossing the Swamp—A Flag of Truce—What is its Object?

MECHANICSVILLE, VA., Saturday, June 7, 1862.

Unusual quiet along the entire right wing of the army has marked the course of the last three days. The gradual advance of that portion of the left wing commanded by Gen. SUMNER, has brought about a practical connection between the two wings, so that troops can now be crossed to reinforce the left without being subjected to the resistance of the enemy in crossing. The swamp still remains as a serious impediment, the rain that has daily fallen serving to increase the expanse of water, while the bridges built on the left have, in a measure, operated as dams, thereby adding to the depth of water above them. With pontoons and an abundance of timber, this water barrier can be overcome with comparative ease, since the left wing has so far advanced that troops can be thrown over in their rear without taking the circuitous route by the way of Dispatch Station and Bottom's Bridge. One division has already crossed over, and others will follow when the proper time comes. It will be necessary to retain a considerable force on this side of the swamp to protect our flank, as the enemy could easily transfer a portion of his force to crossings above our extreme right, and harrass us greatly on the right and rear. Had Gen. McDOWELL been permitted to continue his advance in this direction, this necessity would have been obviated, and the whole available force of McCLELLAN could then be dashed against the main army of the rebels. We still cling to the hope that (the Washington scare having subsided) McDowell may yet make a forced march in this direction, and aid not only in the defeat but capture of the whole rebel army.

The camps are all astir with speculation as to the object of a flag of truce sent over by Gen. McCLELLAN yesterday. Col. N. S. SWEITZER, accompanied by an escort of cavalry, went to the Upper Meadow Bridge in the afternoon, carrying with him dispatches to the General-in-Chief of the rebel forces. Before reaching the bridge they were saluted with one shot, evidently fired by mistake, but on waving the flag of truce were met and courteously received by an officer of the Fourth Virginia Cavalry. The officer not feeling authorized to receive the dispatches, had to ride back to consult Gen. GAZES, who commands the troops in that locality, relative to the matter. In the meantime, an opportunity was afforded to enter into conversation with those who remained, and the recent battles of Saturday and Sunday, together with general news pertaining to the war, were sociably talked over and discussed. No answer was given to the dispatches of Gen. McCLELLAN yesterday, and to-day Col. SWEITZER, by previous arrangement, meets them at the same place to receive their reply. The inventive mind of every camp sensationist is cudgeled to find out the object of the mission of Col SWEITZER. The reasons that meet with most favor, and which are, perhaps, as plausible as any, are that McCLELLAN has ordered the removal of the woman and children from Richmond, preparatory to an assault on the city, or that an exchange of Gen. PATTERSON and other rebel officers for Cols. CASCORAN and WILCOX is proffered. The spot where this interview took place is about eight miles above Mechanicsville, and is the only crossing under the control of the rebels now accessible.

The rebels are still plainly seen in considerable force on the opposite side from where I am writing. Occasional artillery practice is indulged in by both sides, and seems to be thought rather a source of amusement than of warfare. With the exception of two or three horses killed and one or two men very slightly wounded, no damage has resulted to our men, and it is impossible to set at the injury done by our guns to the enemy. The Position of Casey's Division in the Late Battle—The Horrors of the Battle-field.

FIRST BRIGADE, HOOKER'S DIVISION,
IN CAMP ON BATTLE-FIELD, AT FAIR OAKS, VA.,
Thursday, June 5, 1862.

That Gen. CASEY'S entire Division were not taken prisoners or totally annihilated at the battle of Saturday last, seems providential. The woods surrounding him were, during the night of Friday, in a most adroit and silent manner, packed with overwhelming masses of rebel infantry and artillery, which drew, hourly, closer and closer upon his lines of pickets, who were only apprised of the vicinity of the rebels when too late to avoid a surprise. Both pickets and enemy burst from the cover into camp at the same instant, the rebels swarming into the field in thousands from every point except the rear. Everything pertaining to the camp was, of course, abandoned, and a retreat became the absolute necessity of the moment, while the enemy poured into the disordered troops a most terrible fire.

Although we were thus surprised, the enemy's loss was more than treble that of ours,—and so far from being the dishonorable and ignoble defeat which many correspondents adjudge to it, it is considered here by high military authority to have been a most masterly and praiseworthy retreat under the circumstances. It is not for us now to criticise the merits of the battle, but the opinion generally prevails that the judgment passed upon the action of Gen. CASEY, by those to whose province it particularly belongs, will not only honorably acquit him of all blame, but commend his prudence and generalship.

But the scene of that terrible and unequal conflict—the battle-field, yet red with the blood of its victims, on which we are now encamped—no pen can convey an adequate description of its revolting horrors. Everywhere about us are strewn all the trappings of the surprised camp, trampled in the mire, or piled in heaps, to be consumed by fire, while blistering pools of blood and new-made graves interrupt our footsteps at frequent intervals. Alabamians, Carolinians, Georgians and Virginians, are buried in long rows all about us, while, scarce a dozen rods beyond, and all through the felled timber, and swamps, and woods, and field, lie hundreds and hundreds of unburied dead, black, disfigured and corrupting, beneath the sweltering skies—all traces of recognition gone, and myriads of worms rapidly reducing them to skeletons. The woods, for miles, present the same sickening and disgusting spectacle, and thousands of unburied skeletons will indicate this terrible battle-field long after peace is restored. The stench is intolerable in many places, and the horses, which lie thickly scattered upon the field, are being burned. The indications are that the rebel loss is largely in excess of ours—at least ten to one; and it would be a matter of little surprise to us should the proportion prove to be fifteen to one. ARGUS.

The Missouri State Convention.

JEFFERSON CITY, Monday, June 9.

In the Convention to-day the bill defining the qualifications of voters, was reported back by the Committee on Elections, and bring before the Convention Mr. MOSS' substitute, postponing all elections till 1864, was withdrawn to allow a direct vote on disfranchising rebels. Mr. BRECKINRIDGE moved an amendment, in substance the same as the provision struck out of Mr. OSS's amendment last week, upon which a lengthy discussion ensued, finally resulting in the adoption of the amendment—ayes 38, noes 37. This result shows a great change since Friday last, when the same provision was stricken out by a vote of 44 to 24.

On the adoption of the section to the bill as amended by Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, disfranchising rebels, the vote stood—ayes 37, noes 37, Mr. OSS voting in the affirmative.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE's amendment disfranchises all persons engaged in the rebellion since the 16th of December last.

The Canadian Parliament.

QUEBEC, Monday, June 9.

Parliament was prorogued this afternoon. The new tariff comes in operation to-day.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—This evening Mr. UREMAN'S brief season opens at the Academy with a wealth of attraction and novelty which has rarely been offered to the public in this establishment. Miss COUTS BERGMANN makes her first appearance as Lucretia Borgia, GERMANIA will play in a subsidiary concert, and Mr. HERRMANN will prestidigitate in addition. The price is so small that there cannot be the slightest doubt that the house will be crowded. Mr. UREMAN deserves success, and we trust that he will have it.

WINTER GARDEN.—With whomsoever the idea originated, it was rather a good one, to associate the magical fame of Prospero, in SHAKSPEARE'S "Tempest," with the prestidigitatorial popularity of Professor ANDERSON. The Professor always had a hankering after histrionic laurels, and here was a splendid chance to combine for him in one character the actor and the necromancer. Of course, it would not do to introduce hat tricks and impromptu pocket-handkerchiefs into the performance of the play as the immortal bard originally wrote it; so a bard, who will not probably achieve immortality, turned its poetry to rythmic doggerel, for the occasion, and changed its plot and incidents into the usual form and complexion of burlesque. As far as the literary merits of the transformation go, little need be said. Criticism of burlesque is simply ridiculous. Some authors, indeed, have the faculty of making the dialogue of this kind of composition convincing with wit enough to render it of itself enjoyable; but the faculty is rare, and probably departed from these shores when Mr. BURNEMBY took a fancy to reside in England. Mr. CHARLES GAYLER, who has parodied "The Tempest" for the Winter Garden, evidently relies, not on the language of his piece, but on his knowledge of stage business, and the Professor's remarkable talent for devising scenes of bewildering magnificence, and willingness to get them up regardless of expense.

It is in its beautiful scenery, gorgeous costumes, marvellous tableaux and such like stage accessories, that this extravaganza depends for success. And, if its success be commensurate with its deserts as an unrivaled specimen of spectacular splendor, it must certainly prove the most unquestionable triumph of the season. It really seems as though cutlery had not been spared in any one of those mechanical departments of dramatic art for the display of which the spectacular extravaganza is so excellent a vehicle. Mr. HAYES has outdone all his former efforts in the way of pictorial embellishment; the stage manager has crowded the stage with hosts of pretty women and well-drilled supernumeraries, and these are dressed in every variety of dazzling array that it could enter into the mind of an artistic costumer to dream about and subsequently manufacture. Then, the place is tacted almost as well as one might wish. Mr. J. B. BURKES assists the Professor in a duplicate of Prospero, one doing all the talk, whilst the other reserves himself for the ambidextrous business of the wizard's cave. The dainty Ariel is admirably played by Miss IDA BURKE, a rapidly improving young actress of genuine ability, piquant in style, and really intelligent in the performance of any character that may be given her; good-looking, too, a pleasing singer, and withal possessed of nerve enough to undergo the risk of one of those perilous leaps which seem to be the particular theatrical madness of the hour. As Mr. HEMPLE makes up as a contraband for Caliban—not a bad conceit, if the humor of the fact were but something else than stale political slang concerning Abolitionists; though this is not the fault of Mr. HEMPLE. Mr. CHARLES HALE, the best burlesque actor in the company, Mr. NICKINSON, Mr. MORRIS, Mr. JEFFRIES and Mr. H. RUSSELL are severally cast for Stephano, Alonzo, Captain Cutlis, Trinculo and Sebastian, and Miss LOUISA ANDERSON makes a very acceptable, if not a very dashing, Ferdinand. The sensation of the piece, though, is Miss EMILY THORNE'S Miranda. Miss THORNE is a new importation from the liveliest of London theatres—the Adelphi—and is a handsome, jolly, buxom blonde, with a superb figure, a reckless abandonment of manner, and no excess of prudery in the matter of apparel. She sings a capital song, (when the subject is not serious and sentimental,) dances irresistible breakdowns, and in various other ways renders it necessary that Mrs. JOHN WOOD should look to her hard-earned laurels. Alone, Miss THORNE would be quite sufficient to make "The Tempest" draw.

Mention ought also be made of Miss FLORA ANDERSON, a little girl of eight or nine apparently, who has a very charming melody with chorus, with the title, "Behold our Glorious Flag Unfurled," which she renders with amazing neatness and vigor. There is no need to advert more particularly to the fact that, in the first act, the Professor introduces a series of his most attractive feats of slight of hand, compressed into a programme of reasonable duration, for the bills of the day expatiate thereon eloquently enough to excite as much curiosity in the public mind as the public mind can saluriously stand.

NIBLO'S.—"The Enchantress" has been withdrawn at Niblo's, after an extraordinary run of several weeks' duration, and on Monday evening was replaced by "The Syren." The entire opera, as it was brilliantly given to the world by AUBER, cannot, of course, be adequately done, Miss CAROLINE RICHINGS not being supported by sufficient vocal strength amongst the male members of her company. It has, therefore, like "The Enchantress," been remodeled into a composite musical drama, all the music of the heroine's part being retained, and the leading bass and tenor songs eliminated. To make up for this deprivation, however, the principal speaking characters are distributed to first-class actors like Mr. E. L. DAVENPORT, Mr. JOHN GILBERT, Mr. PETER RICHINGS and Mr. L. R. SHEWELL, and an excellent performance, as a whole, is the result. Miss RICHINGS surpasses her former efforts in her rendering of AUBER's exquisite melodies, and still more conclusively establishes her reputation as one of the best executants of glittering, passionless staccato passages and intricate fioriture at present on the stage. "The Syren" has been received with great favor, and will, no doubt, attract large audiences for a good many nights to come.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Mr. FLORENCE commenced the Summer season at Wallack's Theatre, last evening, by the production of a new burlesque on "The Lady of Lyons." It is from the pen of Mr. H. J. BYRON—one of the most popular of burlesque writers—and was played for the first time in London about two years ago. No great literary merit is attached to it, but it is full of outrageous puns, that cause many a hearty laugh, which no doubt was all that was intended.

Mrs. FLORENCE as Claude Melnotte was excellent, as also was Mr. FLORENCE as Beauseant. Mr. DAVENS, as the Widow Melnotte, was exceedingly funny. In the last scene, the make-up of Mr. and Mrs. FLORENCE as NAPOLEON BONAPARTE and LOUIS NAPOLEON was superb, deserving the applause obtained. "Handy Andy" and "Yankee Housekeeper" were the other pieces performed.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

LOOK OUT FOR MANTILLA THIEVES.—MARY MURRAY was yesterday taken into custody upon the charge of having stolen a black silk mantilla, valued at fifty-five dollars, from the store of Mad. FLORA PERCOS, of No. 56 Bleecker-street. The accused attended the Cremorne Gardens on Monday night, and was caught with the mantilla upon her person. It was identified by several parties beside the proprietress. Justice KELLY held the prisoner to bail in the sum of $300. It is alleged that there is a large class of cloak and mantilla thieves who have recently plied their trade with great success in the neighborhood of Canal and Bleecker streets. The Police have been informed in respect to their plans, and all shopkeepers, who have suffered on account of this gang, are requested to report their losses without delay, either to Police Headquarters, or to the Captains of the different Police Precincts.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE THETA DELTA CHI FRATERNITY.—The annual Convention of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity will be held at the Astor House, in this City, on the 18th and 19th days of June. The Society, which is an extended one, will be represented in the Convention by delegates from the parent chapter at Union College; as well as Brown University, Rhode Island; Harvard College, Massachusetts; the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Troy; Bowdoin College, Maine; Tufts College, Massachusetts, and many other institutions. On the evening of the 19th inst., a eulogy will be delivered in Hope Chapel, Broadway, upon the late Fire James D. C. O'Barr and the late Capt. JOHN J. HENRY, who fell at the head of his company at the battle of Roanoke Island, during the charge of the Ninth New-Jersey Regiment, by WILLIAM H. MARSHAL, Esq., of this City.

A SERIOUS SHOOTING AFFRAY.—Early yesterday morning, an affray occurred at a lager-bier saloon, situated at No. 40 Essex-street. Two Germans, passed Crot of the Ninth Ward, were the principal actors in the affair. Some after the affray commenced, Kelly (who is an unmarried man) had in his possession a revolver, and, upon the arrival of Kerrigan, of which, both parties fired one shot, and succeeded in wounding the latter in the left side, and inflicting a severe wound. The offender was arrested, and Justice Rosenberg committed him to answer.

CRIMES OF GENERAL SIGNIFICANCE.—In this Court, yesterday, before Recorder HOFFMAN, JAMES CLARK pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was sentenced for one month. BILLY RILEY pleaded guilty to the same offence, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for six months. FRANCIS BRYAN and JOHN MANNIX were tried and convicted of an attempt at petit larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for three months each. EDWARD SWEENEY pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the fourth degree, in causing the death of JOHN FITZSIMMONS by carelessly blasting of rocks, between Ninety-second and Ninety-third streets. Sentence deferred.

THE TROTTING TO-DAY.—There will be a fine trot at the Fashion Course to-day. The double-team race toward which sporting men have looked with pleasure, will come off at 3 o'clock this afternoon. WOODRUFF will drive Ice Pony and Lady Dean, and McLAUGHLIN will drive Kate and Mink. To-morrow the first trotting handicap ever made in this country will come off at the same course. This will be the greatest trot of the season; DODWORTH'S Band will be in attendance, and there is provided a private stand for ladies.

BARNUM'S BABY-SHOW.—Yesterday the second edition of this popular work was placed before the public. The tremendous triplets, and the darling twins, and the feeding for sons, were in cool and pleasant mood; the baby-show, over whose arm easily passes an ordinary fingering, being slightly indisposed, was exhibited on the stage of the lecture-room, and Commodore NUTT, whose recent pleasure trip has bronzed his skin and toughened his muscle, delighted his friends, rural and metropolitan, by his songs, his dancing, his drumming, and various antics.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. ANNIE COSTER, residing at No. 8 Park-street, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide by cutting her throat with a razor. She was arrested in the act, but until a portion of the windpipe was severed. The Coroner, and his deputy, Dr. ROBINSON, were immediately called in, and every possible means were taken to preserve her life, but it is thought that she cannot recover. When she was questioned as to the motive which induced her to commit the rash act, she said "she was tired of life." She has one child about nine weeks old, and has not been married more than a year.

Aid for Pennsylvania Wounded and Sick Soldiers.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY EVENING AT THE ASTOR HOUSE—MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE ON PRELIMINARY ARRANGEMENTS.

An adjourned meeting of the Committee of the Sons of Pennsylvania, appointed to report a plan of organization of a society to care for sick, wounded and disabled Pennsylvania soldiers, arriving at this port, was held last evening at the Astor House, Mr. S. B. H. VANCE presiding.

Mr. S. NEWELL, from the Committee on Permanent Organization, reported that they had had an interview with Gov. CURTIN, at the Brevoort House, where the subject was fully discussed; that Gov. CURTIN did not feel authorized to select a place for the hospital, but believed that such selection would properly belong to the Committee; that he would do all in his power, officially and individually, to aid the movement, to see that the soldiers were well cared for, and their friends informed of their whereabouts and condition; that he approved of the plan of organization proposed last evening. A Sub-Committee, consisting of Messrs. RUSSELL, MONTGOMERY and BURTON, had been appointed to confer with the New-England Association, and examine and report upon their system, and to generally do all they could for the suffering soldiers. He had no doubt that the requisite supplies of all kinds, clothing, bedding, medicines and provisions, would be forthcoming as soon as a proper receptacle could be provided, and persons authorized to receive them.

Upon motion, the Committee on Organization was authorized to procure the refusal of suitable rooms for a hospital.

Mr. NEWELL's report was received, and the Committee continued.

Mr. JEROME BUCK, after a neat address, showing the necessity of a permanent organization of resident Pennsylvanians, for the purpose of social reunion, as well as of charitable effort, moved the appointment of a Committee of five, to report a plan of organization for such a Society, and report at the mass meeting. The suggestion was adopted, and the following Committee appointed, viz.: Jerome Buck, M. G. Hart, S. P. Russell, Dr. David Fetter and Samuel Milligan, Jr.

The Committee on Organization was authorized to appoint sub-Committees on finance, contributions, location of hospital, correspondence and printing.

After conference with Mr. STETSON, who kindly agreed to furnish a suitable room, the meeting adjourned to meet on Friday evening, in mass meeting, at the Astor-house, when, it is to be hoped, all Pennsylvanians and their friends in the City will be present.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

THE PETROLEUM OIL EXCITEMENT.—At the last meeting of the Common Council, the following petition, drawn up by a Committee appointed at a meeting, held on Friday night last, of persons interested in the traffic of petroleum oil, was presented, and referred to the Joint Fire Department Committee:

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Brooklyn:

The memorial of the undersigned, a committee of citizens interested and engaged in the storage and manufacture of petroleum, respectfully present:

That your honorable body, at its last meeting, adopted an ordinance in relation to petroleum rock or earth oil, which, without any notice, at once prohibits its storage or manufacture under such conditions as entirely to prevent the operations in business of those whom they represent, constituting a large number of citizens of Brooklyn, and under the most severe penalties. Your honorable body, in order, it is believed, to give these citizens an opportunity of being heard before the ordinance should go into effect, passed at the same time a resolution instructing the Joint Fire Department Committee to hear the parties interested and to report if there were any cases which in its opinion ought to be excepted from the operation of the ordinance, and appointing Friday evening last for a meeting of that Committee to hear the parties, and making their report the special order for this evening. The parties so interested did attend in large numbers, but owing as they understood to unavoidable causes, the Committee were not able to form a quorum on that evening, and no opportunity, consequently, was afforded the parties of being heard, as intended by your honorable body. The undersigned having every confidence in the disposition of your honorable body, especially from the action fixing the meeting of the Committee, to give them a hearing before the ordinance should go into force, and such intention having been defeated, respectfully ask your honorable body to suspend the operation of the ordinance until such hearing shall be had and final action upon the report of the Committee by your honorable body.

(Signed,) D. O. KETCHAM,
In behalf of the Committee.
